

Editorial

Dear Readers / Research Scholars,

For every problem there will be a solution. But unfortunately most of the people do not think about the solution. They will be afraid of the problem and become discouraged. Not only in life but also in the field of research, we face so many problems. If we do not try for solution our research will not continue further. To find a solution one must try hard and put all his efforts. If necessary he must take the help of his colleagues or the guidance of his guide. A strong will and untiring effort will give us a solution. If once we get a solution the success will be at our threshold. So my dear Readers and Research Scholars let us not be afraid of problems. Let us try sincerely to solve them and get success.

*“For every Problem there will be a solution
That will make a way for our evolution”*
